You can choose to take the elevator or walk up 600 steps to the main deck, located 150 meters above the ground. If you are lucky, on sunny days you may even be able to catch a glimpse of Mt. Fuji rising in the distance. If you are a fan of all heights, try standing on the glass floor sections that allow you to look directly down to the ground, covered by greenery under your feet. The very top deck – up at 250 meters – was re-opened in early 2018, adding happy busy views to a and LED lighting effects to give the feeling of floating above the city on a high-tech apparatus.

All the appropriately named Fourtowers at the base of the tower you can get a ticket to Tokyo One Piece Tower, a theme park dedicated to the wildly popular One Piece animation series. If you are looking for a quieter activity, the Tokyo Tower Aquarium is a good alternative. Fourtowers offers several shops and cafes where you can purchase light snacks, drinks or more substantial meals to give you the energy to explore nearby Gyoji Temple and Shiba Park.
