Guide to Tokyo's Locavore Restaurants

Introduction

To more widely promote local food production and consumption, the Tokyo Metropolitan Government registers restaurants that actively use ingredients sourced locally from Tokyo's 23 special wards and the Tama area as "Tokyo's Locavore Restaurants," and publishes an annual guidebook of the same name.

In doing so, we aim to foster understanding of Tokyo's agricultural, forestry and fishery products to expand their production and consumption.

The English-language edition of the guidebook was created so that international visitors to Tokyo can also enjoy locally sourced ingredients. Of all the registered restaurants, this guidebook introduces 254 restaurants that actively accept foreign guests, such as by having an English menu.

In addition, we have also compiled an English-language edition of "Locavore Dining in the Tokyo Islands," a guidebook which introduces restaurants in the Tokyo Islands.

We hope that you find both of these guidebooks useful in your travels.
