

Details of Events Running May 21 and May 22

The World's Cruise Areas in Images

Cruise areas around the world are presented in sections by region: Asia/Oceania; Europe; North and South America; and Africa/others. The various features of each region are shown in images including ports and tourist attractions. Scenes of ships entering port, and views that can be seen only from on board ship, plus scenes from local excursions are also on show in this beautiful display. It's enough to make anyone want to go on a cruise!

The Stars as Seen from a Cruise Ship

In a mobile planetarium, visitors experience views of the stars that can be seen only from a ship. The planetarium's dome has a six meter circumference accommodating about 30 people (40 including children). During the festival it will be set to show the May 2016 skies as seen from ship after setting off from Japan, with night views from the northern to the southern hemisphere. When the scene changes, visitors can view the skies as they will be seen when sailing in August 2016 from Florida, traveling toward the North Pole via Norway. This pleasant 15-minute show is set to music and will be repeated about 10 times each day.

The World's Cruise Ships: Exhibition featuring cruise ships, facilities and equipment

In this packed exhibition area, you can find answers to all your questions about these so-called 'floating hotels', such as what facilities are on board, and what life is like on a cruise. There is a huge variety in the class and size of cruise ships and this exhibition takes you deep into their world. Cruise ship company videos and photos are also on display.

Why not try to find your favorite cruise ship?

Food Area: Delights of Port Cuisine

Every morning you wake up in a different port—one of the delights of cruising is that you have a chance to experience the daily life and culture of the countries you visit just by stepping on shore and joining a tour. In the food area, various dishes will be served from food trucks and other outlets. A range of port-related items will also be on sale.
